

Report of the Classical Students Association (CSA)

Classical Students Association (CSA) Business

- The proposed updates to the CSA constitution were approved unanimously by the executive of the CSA, after a consultation with the executive. One small amendment to the constitution was proposed (with regards to the VP- Internals' role) and the draft was changed to reflect this. The proposed constitution will be sent to the "Constitution and By-Law Review Committee" for their approval.
- On Monday February 12th, the CSA co- hosted our annual Valentine's Day Speaker Series lecture "Love in the time of" with the HSA. The lecture series was an enormous success with around 65-70 students attending. Thank you to the events teams for both the CSA and HSA for organizing this event and a special thanks to professor Brian Lewis, professor Hans Beck and professor Leonard Moore (as well as his MA) for their lectures.
- The CSA executive is pleased to welcome Kaitlin Wong, a U0 arts student from Vancouver, British Columbia who will be replacing myself as one of two "first-year representative" on the CSA executive. In addition to her role as a "first- year representative", she will be acting as my shadow and as a member of the "First Year Engagement Committee".
- Professor Lynn Kozak's series "Happy Hour Homer" continues this Monday, February 12th from 5:30- 7:30 at Bar des Pins. The event (and venue) are 18+ and that there is a content warning of misogyny, ableism, sexual violence and physical violence. As well, this event is filmed, however seats are available outside of the frame.
- The CSA will be having a bake sale on Tuesday, February 27th from 10- 4 in Leacock lobby.
- The CSA website is currently in the process of being updated.

Respectfully Submitted,
Chip Smith
